Glyn T. Davies

Acting Assistant Secretary, Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights and Labor

Glyn T. Davies, a career Foreign Service Officer, assumed his duties as the new Acting Assistant Secretary of State for Democracy, Human Rights and Labor on May 31, 2005.

Immediately prior to this assignment, he served as Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for European Affairs. From September 2003 to July 2004, the President had chosen Mr. Davies for the post of Political Director for the U.S. Presidency of the G-8 with the rank of Ambassador. In his G-8 role, he negotiated the Summit's centerpiece declaration pledging support for political, economic and social reform in the Broader Middle East and North Africa

From 1999 until 2003, Mr. Davies served as Deputy Chief of Mission at the U.S. Embassy in London. He was appointed by President Clinton as Executive Secretary of the National Security Council Staff in 1997, a position he held until 1999.

Mr. Davies was assigned as State Department Deputy Spokesman and Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs, 1995-97. He served as Director of the Department of State's Operations Center from 1992 to 1994, after which he attended the National War College at Ft. McNair in Washington, DC, earning a master's degree in National Security Strategy.

From 1987 to 1992, Mr. Davies served in the State Department's Office of European Security and Political Affairs, followed by an assignment as, first, Political-Military Affairs Officer, and then Deputy Political Counselor at the U.S. Embassy in Paris.

He was Special Assistant to Secretary of State George Shultz from 1986 to 1987.

Mr. Davies served in a variety of consular, economic, and political assignments at the U.S. Consulate General in Melbourne, Australia and at the U.S. Embassy in Kinshasa, Zaire, from 1980 to 1984.

Mr. Davies earned his bachelor's degree from Georgetown University in 1979. He and his wife have two grown daughters.
